Subject: Recruitment of Manager (Elex.)

Sir,

After inordinate delay of more than two years AAI management has short listed 87 candidates for the post of Manager (Electronics) on the basis of the Open Exam and interview against the total vacancies of 171.

Time and again we have been writing about the acute manpower shortage in the CNS discipline which is adversely affecting the day to day work in operation and maintenance of CNS facilities, AAI management has failed to look into this serious issue. The required men behind the machine – communication, navigation and surveillance system in the Air Traffic Service are being overlooked. No machine/ system can work without the required manpower. The machine/ system are bound to fail when few men are looking after multiple facilities. AAI management is unable to visualise that upto certain extent it is possible to extract additional work and responsibilities from the numbered CNS executives in AAI, at one point of time it is bound to collapse and that day AAI management has to reply to the public and to the aviation industry for its negligence and creating turmoil in providing safe air traffic services to the nation.

Instead of filling up of more number of vacancies or atleast the 171 posts for which advertisement was made in December 2007, AAI management has just short listed 87 candidates. It is requested to kindly fill up all the 171 posts of Manager (Elex.) posts for which the advertisement was made. Once again, it is also requested to look into the creation of posts for the additional new facilities and additional watch hours at airports and for filling up of the vacant posts at top priority.

Thanking you.

Yours sincerely,

(S. Kobiraj)
